TABULAR ANALYSIS.

ALL OCCUPATIONS: BY TOWNS. FOR THE COUNTIES OF ESSEX, FRANKLIN, HAMPDEN, AND HAMPSHIRE, ... 339-599

In connection with this analysis, the note on pages 161 to 167 should be carefully read, as it throws light upon the method of classification employed, and brings out the important features of the tabulation.

The first analysis table classifies the cities and towns in the four counties at present under consideration, namely, Essex, Franklin, Hampden, and Hampshire, according to their industrial prominence with respect to the three leading industries, namely, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, or, if a town is not of prominence industrially, classifying it as a place of residence; and as this Part may come into the hands of readers who have not before them other sections of the volume, we insert here the following explanatory paragraph relating to the classification, similar to that given in connection with the other county presentations of this kind.

In classifying towns under the various heads shown in the table, the following plan has been adopted: If the persons employed in the three principal productive industries, namely, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, comprised more than 50 per cent of the total number of persons employed in all gainful occupations, the town has been classed as an industrial town. For example, referring to the table, in Amesbury in Essex County more than 50 per cent of the persons remuneratively employed were engaged in the three industries named, bringing that town into the industrial class; of the three industries, persons engaged in manufactures predominated over the number engaged in agriculture and the fisheries combined. It is therefore called a manufacturing town, designated by the initial letter M in the table. When two or more industry designations, represented in the table by appropriate initial letters, are combined, with respect to any town, it indicates that although such town is, as explained, classed as industrial, the two or more industries are of substantially equal prominence. This is the case in Newbury, in which the number employed in agriculture and in manufactures practically balance each other.

When the number employed in the different towns in the three industries, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, was less than 50 per cent of the whole number engaged in all gainful pursuits, the town has been considered residential rather than industrial, that fact being indicated by the letter R in the table. The fact that one or more of these three industries had some prominence in such towns is indicated, however, by the use of the proper initial letters, after the letter R.

Thus, referring again to the table, the town of East Longmeadow in Hampden County is classed as a residential town, the number of persons employed therein in the three industries, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, being less than 50 per cent of the whole number gainfully employed. But although residential, a sufficient number were employed in agriculture and manufactures to be noted by the use of the designations A and M.

In Essex County, as shown by the first line of the table, 113,469 persons of both sexes were engaged in gainful and productive occupations in 1885, and 147,170 in 1895, an increase of 33,701, or 29.70 per cent. During the same period the population increased 66,666, or 25.28 per cent.

The conditions in each city and town of the county are shown by a similar comparison. The following cities and towns show a gain both in population and persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Amesbury, Andover, Beverly, Bradford, Danvers, Gloucester, Hamilton, Haverhill, Ipswich, Lawrence, Lynn, Lynnfield, Manchester, Methuen, Nahant, Newburyport, North Andover, Peabody, Rockport, Rowley, Salem, Saugus, Swampscott, and Wenham. On the other hand, the following towns show a loss both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Boxford, Essex, Georgetown, Merrimac, Middleton, Salisbury, Topsfield, and West Newbury. The losses in Salisbury are due principally to the loss of part of its territory, incorporated in the town of Amesbury since 1885, and this accounts also for part of the gains in Amesbury. In Groveland and Marblehead a gain is shown in population, but a decline appears in the number of persons gainfully and productively employed; and in Newbury we find a loss in population, but a gain in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations.

Of the cities and towns showing gains in both respects, the following show a greater gain in population than in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Amesbury, Danvers, Hamilton, Haverhill, Lynn, Saugus, and Swampscott. The increase in persons gainfully employed is greater than the increase in population in Andover, Beverly, Bradford, Gloucester, Ipswich, Lawrence, Lynnfield, Manchester, Methuen, Nahant, Newburyport, North Andover, Peabody, Rockport, Rowley, Salem, and Wenham.

Of the towns showing a loss in population and also in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, Topsfield shows the greater loss in population, while Boxford, Essex, Georgetown, Merrimac, Middleton, Salisbury, and West Newbury show the greater loss in persons gainfully and productively employed.

In Franklin County, the number engaged in gainful and productive occupations in 1885 was 14,538, and in 1895, 15,752, a gain of 8.35 per cent, the population gaining only 7.20 per cent. The following towns in this county show gains both in population and in persons gainfully and productively engaged: Charlemont, Colrain, Erving, Gill, Greenfield, Monroe, Montague, Northfield, Orange, and Wendell. The following towns show losses in both respects: Ashfield, Bernardston, Buckland, Conway, Hawley, Heath, Leverett, Leyden, Rowe, Shelburne, Warwick, and Whately. In New Salem the population increased, but the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations declined, while the reverse statement is true with respect to Deerfield and Sunderland. In the town of Shutesbury, a loss in the population is shown, but no change in the number of persons gainfully and productively employed.

Of the towns showing a gain both in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed, Charlemont, Erving, Gill, Montague, Northfield, and Wendell show the greater gain in population, but in Colrain, Greenfield, Monroe, and Orange, the gain in persons gainfully employed was greater than the gain in population.

Of the towns showing a loss both in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed, Ashfield, Conway, Hawley, Leyden, Rowe, Shelburne, and Warwick show the greater loss in population, but the contrary is true in Bernardston, Buckland, Heath, Leverett, and Whately.

In Hampden County, the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations in 1885 was 50,924, and in 1895, 65,832, a gain of 29.27 per cent. During the same time the population gained 30.98 per cent. The following cities and towns in the county show a gain both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Agawam, Chester, Chicopee, Holyoke, Ludlow, Palmer, Springfield, Westfield, West Springfield, and Wilbraham. Losses in both respects are shown in Blandford, Brimfield, Granville, Hampden, Holland, Longmeadow, Montgomery, Russell, Southwick, Tolland, and Wales. The town of Monson shows a loss in population, but a gain in the number of persons gainfully and productively employed. The town of East Longmeadow, established since 1885, does not, of course, enter into the comparison, but the losses in Longmeadow are partly due to the establishment of East Longmeadow out of its territory.

Of the cities and towns showing a gain in both respects, Holyoke, Springfield, Westfield, and Wilbraham show a greater gain in population than in persons gainfully and productively employed. On the other hand, in Agawam, Chester, Chicopee, Ludlow, Palmer, and West Springfield, the increase in persons gainfully and productively employed exceeds the increase in population.

Of the towns showing losses in both respects, Blandford, Brimfield, Hampden, and Tolland show the greater loss in population, while in Granville, Holland, Longmeadow, Montgomery, Russell, Southwick, and Wales, the greater loss is in persons gainfully and productively engaged.

In Hampshire County, the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations was 19,349 in 1885, and 22,098 in 1895, a gain of 14.21 per cent. The population, however, gained but 12.87 per cent in the same period. The following towns in the county show gains in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Amherst, Easthampton, Granby, Huntington, Northampton, Southampton, South Hadley, and Ware. Losses in both respects are shown in Belchertown, Chesterfield, Cummington, Enfield, Goshen, Greenwich, Hatfield, Middlefield, Pelham, Plainfield, Westhampton, Williamsburg, and Worthington. In Hadley and Prescott we note a loss in population, but a gain in persons gainfully and productively engaged.

Of the towns showing gains both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, Easthampton, Huntington, and South Hadley show the greater gain in population, while in Amherst, Granby, Northampton, Southampton, and Ware the greater gain is in persons gainfully and productively engaged.

Of the towns showing losses in both respects, the greater loss is shown in population in Chesterfield, Hatfield, Pelham, Westhampton, and Worthington; while on the other hand, the greater loss is shown in persons gainfully and productively engaged, in Belchertown, Cummington, Enfield, Goshen, Greenwich, Middlefield, Plainfield, and Williamsburg.

In Essex County, there is one town classed as agricultural, namely, Boxford, which shows a loss both in population and in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations.

In Franklin County, there are 13 towns classed as agricultural, eight of which show a loss both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations; two, a gain in both respects; one, a loss in population but a gain in persons gainfully employed; one, a gain in population but a loss in persons gainfully employed; and one a loss in population but no change in persons gainfully employed.

In Hampden County, there are eight agricultural towns, seven of which show a loss in population and in persons gainfully employed, and one a gain in both respects.

In Hampshire County, there are 15 agricultural towns, 11 showing a loss in both population and persons gainfully employed; two, a gain in both respects; and two a loss in population but a gain in persons gainfully employed.

In Essex County, 22 cities and towns are classed as principally devoted to manufactures. Of these, 17 show a gain in population and persons productively employed; three, a loss in both respects; and two a gain in population but a loss in persons gainfully employed.

In Franklin County, there are four towns classed as devoted to manufactures, and all these show gains both in population and in persons gainfully employed.

In Hampden County, there are eight manufacturing cities and towns, of which six show a gain both in population and in persons gainfully employed; one, a loss in population but a gain in persons gainfully employed; and one a loss in both respects.

In Hampshire County, there are six manufacturing towns, of which five show a gain both in population and in persons gainfully employed, and one a loss in both respects.

The following table summarizes the results of the classification which indicates the industrial status of the cities and towns in the different counties:

Classification by Industrial Prominence.	Counties
	Essex	Franklin	Hampden	Hampshire
Agriculture,	1	13	8	15
Agriculture — manufactures,	9	9	5	2
Fisheries — manufactures,	1	-	-	-
Manufactures,	22	4	8	6
Residence,	1	-	-	-
Residence — manufactures,	-	-	1	-
Residence — agriculture — manufactures,	1	-	1	-
Totals,	35	26	23	23

The figures in this table, explained by what we have previously said as to the method of classification, show that of the 35 cities and towns in Essex County, only one may be classed as devoted to agriculture; nine to agriculture and manufactures; one to the fisheries and manufactures; 22 to manufactures; one as a place of residence; and one as a place of residence, also engaged in agriculture and manufactures.

In Franklin County, out of 26 towns, 13 are to be classed under agriculture; nine as engaged in agriculture and manufactures; and four in manufactures principally.

In Hampden County, out of 23 cities and towns, eight are devoted to agriculture; five to agriculture and manufactures; eight principally to manufactures; one to manufactures and as a place of residence; and one to agriculture, manufactures, and as a place of residence.

In Hampshire County, there are 23 cities and towns, of which 15 are classed under agriculture; two under agriculture and manufactures; and six as devoted principally to manufactures.

The relative importance of the different counties in agriculture, so far as may be judged from the number of towns engaged therein, in comparison with the whole number of towns in each county, may be seen from the first line of the table. That is to say, in Essex, one out of 35, in Franklin, 13 out of 26, in Hampden, eight out of 23, in Hampshire, 15 out of 23, are towns in which the persons engaged in agriculture outranked those engaged in the other industries.

On the other hand, considering cities and towns in which the persons engaged in manufactures predominated, thus constituting the town by our basis of classification a manufacturing town, there are 22 out of 35 in Essex County, four out of 26 in Franklin, eight out of 23 in Hampden, and six out of 23 in Hampshire.

Essex County contains one city, Gloucester, in which the fisheries occupy a place sufficiently important to appear in the classification. This county also contains one town in which agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries combined did not engage more than 50 per cent of the persons employed in gainful pursuits. This town, therefore, is considered a purely residence town. No such towns are found in either of the other three counties.

The following table gives, in condensed form for each of the counties, for the cities and towns showing increase in population and in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations, the number which show the greater increase in one respect as compared with the other, and for the cities and towns showing losses, those showing the greater loss in one respect as compared with the other:

Counties.	Number of Cities and Towns showing Greater Increase in —		Number of Cities and Towns showing Greater Loss in —		New Towns	Aggregates
	Population	Gainful and Productive Occupations	Population	Gainful and Productive Occupations
Essex, ...	9	18	1	7	–	35
Franklin, ...	7	6	8*	5	–	26
Hampden, ...	4	7	4	7	1	23
Hampshire, ...	3	7	5	8	–	23

* Includes one which shows a loss in population but no change in persons gainfully employed.

In Essex County, out of 35 cities and towns, there are 27 which show increases either in population or in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations; of these, nine show a greater increase in population than in the other respect. There are eight towns which show losses, and of these one shows a greater loss in population than is shown in the number of persons employed in gainful and productive occupations.

Of the 26 towns in Franklin County, there are 13 which show gains, and of these seven show a greater gain in population than in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations. On the other hand, there are 13 towns which show losses, and of these eight show a greater loss in population than is shown in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations.

Of the 23 cities and towns in Hampden County, 11 show gains, and in four of these the gain is greater in population than in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations. There are also 11 towns which show losses, and in four of these the greater loss is in population. There is one town in the county established since 1885, and therefore not entering into the comparison.

Of the 23 cities and towns in Hampshire County, there are 10 which show gains, and in three of these the gain in population is the greater. There are 13 towns which show losses, and in five of these the loss in population is the greater.

It is impossible in the brief space devoted to this analysis to point out the important bearing which these statistics have upon the changes that are gradually taking place in the social and economic condition of Massachusetts. The close application of the figures to localities, the relative importance of certain industries in the cities and towns, and the transformation which the industrial development of the State is effecting in the different municipalities, the decline in some, the growth in others, this minute analysis must be left to the student or to those especially interested in particular phases of the subject. One line of inquiry may be briefly noted, to be more fully developed in a special report of the Bureau, namely, that relating to the condition of women in industry.

In Essex County, it will be remembered, the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations was found to be 29.70 per cent greater in 1895 than in 1885. The gain by sexes shows no material difference when expressed in percentages, the males increasing 30.09 and the females 28.62. In Franklin County, however, while the persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations increased 8.35 per cent, the males increased but 6.95 per cent and the females gained 16.25 per cent.

In Hampden County, the increase in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations was 29.27 per cent, but the increase in males was 31.07 per cent and the increase in females but 24.81 per cent. Finally, in Hampshire County, while as a whole the persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations increased but 14.21 per cent, and the males alone but 11.52 per cent, the increase in females productively employed was 22.06 per cent.

To sum up, especially with reference to women in industry, the gain in females productively and gainfully employed was considerably greater than the rate of increase shown for all persons without regard to sex in Franklin and Hampshire Counties, materially less in Hampden County, and practically the same in Essex County. The percentage of increase in females employed was greater than that shown by males in Franklin and Hampshire, less in Hampden, and not materially different in Essex. Compared with the percentage of increase shown in population, the females employed in gainful and productive occupations show a larger relative gain in Essex, Franklin, and Hampshire Counties, while in Hampden County the percentage of increase in females gainfully employed is less than the percentage of increase in population.

We may note for the purpose of comparison, a similar series of percentages for Barnstable, Berkshire, Bristol, and Dukes Counties. In Barnstable, persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations showed a decline of 8.76 per cent in 1895 as compared with 1885; but although the males declined 11.46 per cent the females gained 10.24 per cent. In Berkshire, all persons gainfully engaged increased 19.16 per cent, the increase in males being but 17.74 per cent and the increase in females 23.69 per cent. In Bristol County, the gain in persons as a whole was 43.49 per cent, but while the males increased only 38.11 per cent, the gain in females was 57.16 per cent. In Dukes County, the gain in persons as a whole was 5.18 per cent, the males increasing 1.74 per cent and the females 28.71 per cent. The gain in females productively and gainfully employed was greater than the gain in population, when expressed in percentages, in Berkshire, Bristol, and Dukes Counties, and although the females gainfully employed in Barnstable County exhibited an increase of 10.24 per cent as has been stated, the population in that county showed a loss of 7.34 per cent.

We summarize all these comparative figures in tabular form.

Counties.	Percentages of Increase (+), or Decrease (−), in 1895 as compared with 1885
	In population	In Persons engaged in Gainful and Productive Occupations
		Both Sexes	Males only	Females only

Hampshire,	+12.87	+14.21	+11.52	+22.06

Ranged as in the foregoing table the figures for the sexes may be readily compared with each other and with the figures for the population as a whole.

All Occupations: By Towns.

For the Counties of Middlesex, Nantucket, and Norfolk.

ALL OCCUPATIONS: BY TOWNS.

Under "Classified Occupations: By Towns," the first presentation in this volume, will be found a statement for each city and town showing the number of males and females, respectively, in each of the 22 classes of occupations.

The explanation of the presentation "All Occupations: By Towns," given in the note on pages 161–167, ante, and relating to the counties of Barnstable, Berkshire, Bristol, and Dukes, is equally applicable to the presentation which follows, relating to the counties of Middlesex, Nantucket, and Norfolk, and the reader should refer to the same in order to understand fully the method of presentation and the reasons for giving the statistics in the manner selected.

Under each class, as explained in the note previously referred to, are "Sections," by which are meant the principal subdivisions under each class, which are usually called industries. Under each section are further subdivisions called "Detail," which are in reality the minor subdivisions of industries, usually called branches of occupation. To learn the number of sections and details under each class, it will be necessary to refer to the note on pages 161–167, ante.

In the first presentation in this volume "Classified Occupations: By Towns," the number in each class, with specification of sex, is given, but no further information is supplied. In the presentation "All Occupations: By Towns," the information supplied is much more complete. We have first the classification by general classes and by section heads, under separate classifications by sex, for each city and town. Besides the number of persons in each class and section, with sex specification, we have in addition four classifications by age periods, four by length of residence in the United States, and also a column indicating the number of illiterate persons employed in the specified section. For instance, if we turn to the presentation for the city of Lowell, on page 686, post, under the general class heading Manufactures we find the section heading Woollen Goods. Taking the line for males first we learn that the whole number of males employed in the manufacture of woollen goods in the city of Lowell on May 1, 1895, was 987. Of these, 164 were 15 but under 20 years of age; 763, 20 but under 60 years of age; and 60, 60 years and over. The number of illiterates was 37. As regards length of residence in the United States, 21 had lived in the United States one year or less; 133, one year but under 6 years; 586, six years but under 30 years; and 247, 30 years and over. Taking the line for females, on page 692, post, we find that the number of that sex employed in the manufacture of woollen goods in Lowell on May 1, 1895, was 890. Their ages, classified by age periods, were as follows: 179, 15 but under 20 years; 704, 20 but under 60 years; and 7, 60 years and over. The number of illiterate females employed in the manufacture of woollen goods was 27. As to the length of residence in the United States, nine had lived in the United States one year or less; 120, over one year but under six years; 628, six years but under 30 years; and 133, 30 years and over.

These illustrations could be multiplied indefinitely, but they would not vary materially from the one just given. In a general way it may be stated that the presentation of "All Occupations: By Towns" shows for each city and town in the Commonwealth the number of males and females engaged in each of the 22 general classes of occupations. It also shows the number of males and females engaged in each of the sections or subdivisions under each of the general classes, with further specifications by age periods, length of residence, and number of illiterate persons in each of such classes or sections. Particular attention is called to the State recapitulation of this presentation (which includes only towns and cities). In the State aggregation, not only are the facts hereinbefore mentioned included, but in addition are given under each class and section, correlated with the details of age periods, length of residence, and illiteracy, the place of birth and descent of native born persons having foreign parentage, the place of birth of the father being considered as determining the nationality. This State recapitulation will be found in Volume VII, as will also a presentation for the State, showing for each of the 3,947 specific branches of occupations in detail, the number of each sex, with further specification of those native born, of native descent; native born, of foreign descent; foreign born; foreign born, naturalized; and foreign born, alien. From the fact that these presentations, to be found in another volume, are in reality State recapitulations of the tables presented in this volume, it has been deemed advisable to call particular attention to them, and to specify in which of the Census volumes they could be found.

ALL OCCUPATIONS: BY TOWNS. FOR THE COUNTIES OF MIDDLESEX, NANTUCKET, AND NORFOLK, ... 611–883

In connection with this analysis, the note on pages 161 to 167 should be carefully read, as it throws light upon the method of classification employed, and brings out the important features of the tabulation.

The first analysis table classifies the cities and towns in the three counties at present under consideration, namely, Middlesex, Nantucket, and Norfolk, according to their industrial prominence with respect to the three leading industries, namely, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, or, if a town is not of prominence industrially, classifying it as a place of residence; and as this Part may come into the hands of readers who have not before them other sections of the volume, we insert here the following explanatory paragraph relating to the classification, similar to that given in connection with the other county presentations of this kind.

In classifying towns under the various heads shown in the table, the following plan has been adopted: If the persons employed in the three principal productive industries, namely, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, comprised more than 50 per cent of the total number of persons employed in all gainful occupations, the town has been classed as an industrial town. For example, referring to the table, in Lowell, in Middlesex County, more than 50 per cent of the persons remuneratively employed were engaged in the three industries named, bringing that city into the industrial class; of the three industries, persons engaged in manufactures predominated over the number engaged in agriculture and the fisheries combined. It is therefore called a manufacturing city, designated by the initial M in the table. When two or more industry designations, represented in the table by appropriate initial letters, are combined, with respect to any town, it indicates that although such town is, as explained, classed as industrial, the two or more industries are of substantially equal prominence. This is the case in Stow, in which the number employed in agriculture and in manufactures practically balance each other.

When the number employed in the different towns in the three industries, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, was less than 50 per cent of the whole number engaged in all gainful pursuits, the town has been considered residential rather than industrial, that fact being indicated by the letter R in the table. The fact that one or more of these three industries had some prominence in such towns is indicated, however, by the use of the proper initial letters, after the letter R. Thus, referring again to the table, the town of Acton in Middlesex County is classed as a residential town, the number of persons employed therein in the three industries, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, being less than 50 per cent of the whole number gainfully and productively employed. But although residential, a sufficient number were employed in agriculture and manufactures to be noted by the use of the designations A and M. It will be seen that as the letter F does not appear in connection with any of the cities or towns in these counties, that the fisheries were not of prominence therein.

In Middlesex County, as shown by the first line of the table, the number of persons employed in gainful and productive occupations in 1885 was 150,329, and in 1895, 212,558, a gain of 41.40 per cent. The population of the county increased 39.71 per cent.

The following cities and towns show a gain both in population and persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Acton, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Billerica, Cambridge, Chelmsford, Concord, Dracut, Everett, Framingham, Hudson, Lexington, Lincoln, Littleton, Lowell, Malden, Marlborough, Maynard, Medford, Melrose, Natick, Newton, Pepperell, Reading, Sherborn, Shirley, Somerville, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Tyngsborough, Wakefield, Waltham, Watertown, Wayland, Westford, Weston, Wilmington, Winchester, and Woburn. The following show a loss both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Ashby, Ashland, Ayer, Boxborough, Carlisle, Holliston, Hopkinton, and North Reading. In Groton a small gain in population is shown and a loss in persons gainfully and productively employed; and in Burlington, Dunstable, Stow, Sudbury, and Townsend small gains appear in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations although the population in each town declined.

Of the cities and towns showing gains in both respects, the following show a greater percentage gained in population than in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Chelmsford, Concord, Dracut, Everett, Framingham, Lowell, Malden, Maynard, Medford, Pepperell, Stoneham, Tewksbury, Waltham, and Wilmington. On the other hand, the following show a greater percentage of increase in persons gainfully and productively employed: Acton, Arlington, Bedford, Belmont, Billerica, Cambridge, Hudson, Lexington, Lincoln, Littleton, Marlborough, Melrose, Natick, Newton, Reading, Sherborn, Shirley, Somerville, Tyngsborough, Wakefield, Watertown, Wayland, Westford, Weston, Winchester, and Woburn.

Of the towns showing a loss in population and also in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, Ashby, Carlisle, Holliston, Hopkinton, and North Reading show the greater percentage of loss in population, while in Ashland, Ayer, and Boxborough the greater percentage of loss is in persons gainfully and productively employed.

In the county of Nantucket, which is identical with the town of Nantucket, the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations in 1885 was 1,094, rising to 1,132 in 1895, a gain of 3.47 per cent. The population, however, lost 126 persons, or 4.01 per cent.

In Norfolk County, the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations rose from 41,168 in 1885 to 55,900 in 1895, a gain of 35.79 per cent. The population increased 31.99 per cent in the same time.

The following cities and towns in this county increased both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Bellingham, Braintree, Brookline, Canton, Cohasset, Dedham, Dover, Foxborough, Franklin, Hyde Park, Medfield, Medway, Millis, Milton, Needham, Norfolk, Norwood, Quincy, Sharon, Stoughton, Walpole, Wellesley, and Weymouth. On the other hand, the following show losses in both respects: Holbrook, Randolph, and Wrentham. In Canton, Foxborough, Millis, and Wellesley the percentage gained in population was greater than that in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, but in Bellingham, Braintree, Brookline, Cohasset, Dedham, Dover, Franklin, Hyde Park, Medfield, Medway, Milton, Needham, Norfolk, Norwood, Quincy, Sharon, Stoughton, Walpole, and Weymouth the reverse statement applies. In Holbrook the losses in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed when expressed in percentages are so nearly alike as to be considered practically the same. In Randolph and Wrentham the percentage loss in population was less than that shown in persons gainfully and productively employed. The town of Avon in Norfolk County was incorporated subsequent to 1885, and therefore no comparisons are possible for that town.

In Middlesex County there are two towns classed as purely agriculture, namely, Ashby and Dunstable, the former showing a loss both in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed, and the latter a loss in population and a gain in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations. In Middlesex County there are 22 cities and towns classed as principally devoted to manufactures. Of these, 17 show gains both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations; four a loss in both respects, and one a loss in population but a gain in persons gainfully and productively employed.

In Norfolk County, there are 16 towns principally engaged in manufactures; of one, Avon, no comparison is possible; 12 show increases both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, and three show losses in both respects.

The following table summarizes the results of the classification which indicates the industrial status of the cities and towns in the three counties under consideration:

Classification by Industrial Prominence.	Middlesex	Nantucket	Norfolk
Agriculture,	2	–	–
Agriculture — manufactures,	1	–	1
Manufactures,	22	–	16
Residence — agriculture,	4	–	–
Residence — manufactures,	17	1	9
Residence — agriculture — manufactures,	8	–	1
Totals,	54	1	27

The figures in this table, explained by what we have previously said as to the method of classification, show that of the 54 cities and towns in Middlesex County, two may be classed as devoted to agriculture; one to agriculture and manufactures; 22 to manufactures; four as places of residence principally, although engaged in agriculture; 17 as places of residence having also manufactures; and eight as places of residence principally, although engaged also in agriculture and manufactures.

The county of Nantucket, which is likewise the town of Nantucket, is classed as a place of residence principally, although having some minor manufacturing industries.

The county of Norfolk has one town classed as devoted to agriculture and manufactures; 16 to manufactures principally; nine as places of residence principally but having also manufactures, and one as a place of residence having also agriculture and manufactures.

The following table gives, in condensed form for each of the counties, for the cities and towns showing an increase in population and in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations, the number which show the greater increase in one respect as compared with the other, and for cities and towns showing losses, those showing the greater loss in one respect as compared with the other:

Counties.	Number of Cities and Towns showing Greater Increase in —		Number of Cities and Towns showing Greater Loss in —		New Towns	Aggregates
	Population	Gainful and Productive Occupations	Population	Gainful and Productive Occupations
Middlesex,	15	31	5	3	–	54
Nantucket,	–	1	–	–	–	1
Norfolk,	4	19	1	2	1	27

In Middlesex County, there are 46 cities and towns, out of 54, which show gains either in population or in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations. Of these, 15 show the greater increase in population. There are eight which show losses; and of these, five show a greater loss in population than is shown in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations.

Nantucket shows a gain only in persons gainfully and productively employed.

In Norfolk County, out of 27 cities and towns, comparisons are possible for but 26. Of these, 23 show gains either in population or in persons gainfully and productively employed; and of these last, there are four which show the greater increase in population. In the county there are three towns which show losses in one respect or the other, and of these one shows the greater loss in population.

With respect to the relative position of the sexes employed in gainful and productive occupations in the three counties, Middlesex, Nantucket, and Norfolk, we may note that in Middlesex, while the population in 1895 shows an increase of 39.71 per cent as compared with 1885, the number of females gainfully and productively employed increased 44.09, as against an increase of 40.36 per cent in males, and a general increase of 41.40 per cent.

In Nantucket, the percentage of increase in females employed in gainful and productive occupations was 29.59, as against a decline of 2.23 per cent in males and a general increase of 3.47 per cent. The population declined 4.01 per cent.

In Norfolk County, the females gainfully and productively employed show an increase of 46.74 per cent, as against an increase of 32.23 per cent in males, and a general increase of 35.79 per cent. The population increased 31.99 per cent.

In order to enable a comparison to be made upon this point with figures previously presented for other counties, we bring forward in one table the percentages for Barnstable, Berkshire, Bristol, Dukes, Essex, Franklin, Hampden, Hampshire, Middlesex, Nantucket, and Norfolk counties.

Counties.	Percentages of Increase (+), or Decrease (−), in 1895 as compared with 1885
	In Population	In Persons engaged in Gainful and Productive Occupations
		Both Sexes	Males only	Females only
Barnstable,	−7.34	−8.76	−11.46	+10.24
Berkshire,	+16.88	+19.16	+17.74	+23.69
Bristol,	+38.18	+43.49	+38.11	+57.16
Dukes,	+2.49	+5.18	+1.74	+28.71
Essex,	+25.28	+29.70	+30.09	+28.62
Franklin,	+7.20	+8.35	+6.95	+16.25
Hampden,	+30.98	+29.27	+31.07	+24.81
Hampshire,	+12.87	+14.21	+11.52	+22.06
Middlesex,	+39.71	+41.40	+40.36	+44.09
Nantucket,	−4.01	+3.47	−2.23	+29.59
Norfolk,	+31.99	+35.79	+32.23	+46.74

From this table it is at once seen that the percentage gain in females employed in gainful and productive occupations was greater than the percentage gained in population in every county except Hampden, and generally, was considerably greater. It was greater than the percentage gain shown among males in all the counties compared except Essex and Hampden, and greater than the general rate of increase in all, except the same two counties.

Since the tabular matter relating to Middlesex County has been put into type, two errors have been noted which require correction. Upon page 625, town of Ashland, the number of illiterate females should be increased to 47 by the inclusion of 32 foreign born engaged in domestic service in the line "housewives and housework," omitted in the table. In the town of Concord, page 652, the designations "rubber and elastic goods" and "saddlery and harness" are misplaced, and should be transposed, the figures in each line remaining unchanged, however. That is there were 115 males engaged in the saddlery and harness industry instead of in rubber and elastic goods and one engaged in rubber and elastic goods instead of in saddlery and harness.

All Occupations: By Towns.

For the Counties of Plymouth, Suffolk, and Worcester.

ALL OCCUPATIONS: BY TOWNS.

Under "Classified Occupations: By Towns," the first presentation in this volume, will be found a statement for each city and town showing the number of males and females, respectively, in each of the 22 classes of occupations.

The explanation of the presentation "All Occupations: By Towns," given in the note on pages 161–167, ante, and relating to the counties of Barnstable, Berkshire, Bristol, and Dukes, is equally applicable to the presentation which follows, relating to the counties of Plymouth, Suffolk, and Worcester, and the reader should refer to the same in order to understand fully the method of presentation and the reasons for giving the statistics in the manner selected.

Under each class, as explained in the note previously referred to, are "Sections," by which are meant the principal subdivisions under each class, which are usually called industries. Under each section are further subdivisions called "Detail," which are in reality the minor subdivisions of industries, usually called branches of occupation. To learn the number of sections and details under each class, it will be necessary to refer to the note on pages 161–167, ante.

In the first presentation in this volume "Classified Occupations: By Towns," the number in each class, with specification of sex, is given, but no further information is supplied. In the presentation "All Occupations: By Towns," the information supplied is much more complete. We have first the classification by general classes and by section heads, under separate classifications by sex, for each city and town. Besides the number of persons in each class and section, with sex specification, we have in addition four classifications by age periods, four by length of residence in the United States, and also a column indicating the number of illiterate persons employed in the specified section. For instance, if we turn to the presentation for the city of Worcester, on page 1223, post, under the general class heading Manufactures we find the section heading Metals and Metallic Goods. Taking the line for males first, we learn that the whole number of males employed in the industry designated as Metals and Metallic Goods in the city of Worcester on May 1, 1895, was 3,861. Of these, 353 were 15 but under 20 years of age; 3,349, 20 but under 60 years of age; and 159, 60 years and over. The number of illiterates was 166. As regards length of residence in the United States, 60 had lived in the United States one year or less; 689, one year but under six years; 2,135, six years but under 30 years; and 977, 30 years and over. Taking the line for females, on page 1226, post, we find that the number of that sex employed in the industry designated as Metals and Metallic Goods in Worcester on May 1, 1895, was 237. Their ages, classified by age periods, were as follows: 88, 15 but under 20 years, and 149, 20 but under 60 years. The number of illiterate females employed in the industry was two. As to the length of residence in the United States, two had lived in the United States one year or less; 16, over one year but under six years; 207, six years but under 30 years; and 12, 30 years and over.

These illustrations could be multiplied indefinitely, but they would not vary materially from the one just given. In a general way it may be stated that the presentation of "All Occupations: By Towns" shows for each city and town in the Commonwealth the number of males and females engaged in each of the 22 general classes of occupations. It also shows the number of males and females engaged in each of the sections or subdivisions under each of the general classes, with further specifications by age periods, length of residence, and number of illiterate persons in each of such classes or sections. Particular attention is called to the State recapitulation of this presentation (which includes only towns and cities). In the State aggregation, not only are the facts hereinbefore mentioned included, but in addition are given under each class and section, correlated with the details of age periods, length of residence, and illiteracy, the place of birth and descent of native born persons having foreign parentage, the place of birth of the father being considered as determining the nationality. This State recapitulation will be found in Volume VII, as will also a presentation for the State, showing for each of the 3,947 specific branches of occupations in detail, the number of each sex, with further specification of those native born, of native descent; native born, of foreign descent; foreign born; foreign born, naturalized; and foreign born, alien. From the fact that these presentations, to be found in another volume, are in reality State recapitulations of the tables presented in this volume, it has been deemed advisable to call particular attention to them, and to specify in which of the Census volumes they could be found.

TABULAR ANALYSIS.

ALL OCCUPATIONS: BY TOWNS. FOR THE COUNTIES OF PLYMOUTH, SUFFOLK, AND WORCESTER, ... 893-1227

In connection with this analysis, the note on pages 161 to 167 should be carefully read, as it throws light upon the method of classification employed, and brings out the important features of the tabulation.

The first analysis table classifies the cities and towns in the three counties at present under consideration, namely, Plymouth, Suffolk, and Worcester, according to their industrial prominence with respect to the three leading industries, namely, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, or, if a town is not of prominence industrially, classifying it as a place of residence; and as this Part may come into the hands of readers who have not before them other sections of the volume, we insert here the following explanatory paragraph relating to the classification, similar to that given in connection with the other county presentations of this kind.

In classifying towns under the various heads shown in the table, the following plan has been adopted: If the persons employed in the three principal productive industries, namely, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, comprised more than 50 per cent of the total number of persons employed in all gainful occupations, the town has been classed as an industrial town. For example, referring to the table, in Brockton, in Plymouth County, more than 50 per cent of the persons remuneratively employed were engaged in the three industries named, bringing that city into the industrial class; of the three industries, persons engaged in manufactures predominated over the number engaged in agriculture and the fisheries combined. It is therefore called a manufacturing city, designated by the initial M in the table. When two or more industry designations, represented in the table by appropriate initial letters, are combined, with respect to any town, it indicates that although such town is, as explained, classed as industrial, the two or more industries are of substantially equal prominence. This is the case in Carver, to cite the first town of this class shown in the table. In this town the number employed in agriculture and manufactures practically balance each other.

When the number employed in the different towns in the three industries, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, was less than 50 per cent of the whole number engaged in all gainful pursuits, the town has been considered residential rather than industrial, that fact being indicated by the letter R in the table. The fact that one or more of these three industries had some prominence in such towns is indicated, however, by the use of the proper initial letters, after the letter R. Thus, referring again to the table, the town of Hingham, in Plymouth County, is classed as a residential town, the number of persons employed therein in the three industries, agriculture, manufactures, and the fisheries, being less than 50 per cent of the whole number gainfully and productively employed. But although residential, a sufficient number were employed in manufactures to be noted by the use of the designation M. It will be seen that as the letter F does not occur in connection with any of the cities or towns in these three counties, the fisheries were not of prominence therein.

In Plymouth County, as shown by the first line of the table, the number of persons employed in gainful and productive occupations in 1885 was 32,954, and in 1895, 41,927, a gain of 27.23 per cent. The population of the county increased 24.26 per cent.

The following cities and towns show a gain, both in population and persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Abington, Bridgewater, Brockton, Duxbury, East Bridgewater, Hanover, Hanson, Hingham, Hull, Kingston, Marshfield, Middleborough, Plymouth, Rockland, Wareham, West Bridgewater, and Whitman. The following show a loss both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Carver, Lakeville, Marion, Mattapoisett, Norwell, Pembroke, Plympton, and Scituate. In Halifax, there is a loss in population, but a gain in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, and in the town of Rochester, although there was no change in population, there was a loss in persons gainfully and productively employed.

Of the cities and towns showing gains in both respects, the following show a greater percentage gained in population than in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Brockton, Hanson, Marshfield, Middleborough, Wareham, and West Bridgewater. The following, however, show the greater percentage of gain in persons gainfully and productively employed: Abington, Bridgewater, Duxbury, East Bridgewater, Hanover, Hingham, Hull, Kingston, Plymouth, Rockland, and Whitman.

Of the towns showing a loss in population and also in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, Marion and Mattapoisett show the greater percentage of loss in population, while in Carver, Lakeville, Norwell, Pembroke, Plympton, and Scituate, the greater percentage of loss is in persons gainfully and productively employed.

In the county of Suffolk, which consists of the cities of Boston and Chelsea and the towns of Revere and Winthrop, each place shows a gain in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed. As a whole, the county contained 181,977 persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations in 1885, while in 1895 the number had risen to 242,108, a gain of 33.04 per cent. During the same time the population increased 28.19 per cent.

In Worcester County, the number of persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations rose from 100,253 in 1885 to 128,488 in 1895, a gain of 28.16 per cent. The population increased 25.57 per cent in the same time.

The following cities and towns in Worcester County show increases, both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Athol, Auburn, Barre, Blackstone, Brookfield, Charlton, Clinton, Dana, Dudley, Fitchburg, Gardner, Grafton, Holden, Lancaster, Leicester, Leominster, Lunenburg, Millbury, Northbridge, North Brookfield, Shrewsbury, Southborough, Southbridge, Sutton, Templeton, Uxbridge, Warren, Webster, Westborough, Winchendon, and Worcester. On the other hand, the following show a loss, both in population and in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Bolton, Douglas, Hardwick, Hubbardston, Milford, Oakham, Paxton, Petersham, Phillipston, Princeton, Royalston, Spencer, Sterling, Sturbridge, Upton, West Brookfield, and Westminster. The loss in Milford is due to the incorporation of the town of Hopedale subsequent to 1885, and for obvious reasons no comparisons are possible for the town of Hopedale itself. In Ashburnham, Northborough, Oxford, Rutland, and West Boylston, gains are shown in population, accompanied by losses in the number of persons gainfully and productively employed; while in Berlin, Boylston, Harvard, Mendon, and New Braintree, there were losses in population, but gains in persons gainfully and productively employed.

Of the cities and towns showing gains in both respects, the following show a greater percentage gained in population than in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations: Charlton, Lunenburg, Southbridge, Sutton, Templeton, Webster, Westborough, and Winchendon. On the other hand, the following show the greater percentage of increase in persons gainfully and productively employed: Athol, Auburn, Barre, Blackstone, Brookfield, Clinton, Dana, Dudley, Fitchburg, Gardner, Grafton, Holden, Lancaster, Leicester, Leominster, Millbury, Northbridge, North Brookfield, Shrewsbury, Southborough, Uxbridge, Warren, and Worcester.

Of the towns which show losses in population and also in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations, the following show the greater percentage of loss in population: Bolton, Douglas, Oakham, Paxton, Petersham, and Spencer. On the other hand, the following show the greater percentage of loss in persons gainfully and productively employed: Hardwick, Hubbardston, Milford, Phillipston, Princeton, Royalston, Sterling, Sturbridge, Upton, West Brookfield, and Westminster.

In Plymouth County there is one town, Lakeville, classed as purely agricultural. This town showed a loss, both in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed. In the county there are 12 towns classed as devoted principally to manufactures. Each of these showed gains in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed.

The cities and towns in Suffolk County are classed as residential and as also devoted to manufactures.

In Worcester County there are 15 towns classed as agricultural; of these, three show gains, both in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed, nine show losses in both respects, and three show a loss in population, but a gain in persons gainfully and productively employed. In this county there are 35 cities and towns classed as devoted to manufactures principally; of these 24 showed a gain, both in population and in persons gainfully and productively employed; six showed losses in both respects, and four showed a gain in population, but a loss in persons gainfully and productively employed. For one town, Hopedale, no comparison is possible.

The following table summarizes the results of the classification which indicates the industrial status of the cities and towns in the three counties under consideration:

Classification by Industrial Prominence.	Counties
	Plymouth	Suffolk	Worcester
Agriculture,	1	–	15
Agriculture — manufactures,	10	–	8
Manufactures,	12	–	35
Residence — manufactures,	2	4	–
Residence — agriculture — manufactures,	2	–	1
Totals,	27	4	59

The figures in this table, explained by what we have previously said as to the method of classification, show that of the 27 cities and towns in Plymouth County, one may be classed as devoted to agriculture; 10 to agriculture and manufactures; 12 to manufactures; two as places of residence principally, although engaged in manufactures; and two as places of residence principally, although engaged in agriculture and manufactures.

The four cities and towns in Suffolk County, as we have previously said, are classed as places of residence, also having manufactures.

The 59 cities and towns in Worcester County comprise 15 towns classed as devoted to agriculture; eight as devoted to agriculture and manufactures; 35 cities and towns principally devoted to manufactures; and one town considered a place of residence, having also agriculture and manufactures.

The following table gives, in condensed form for each of the counties, for the cities and towns showing an increase in population and in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations, the number which show the greater increase in one respect as compared with the other, and for cities and towns showing losses, those showing the greater loss in one respect as compared with the other:

Counties.	Number of Cities and Towns showing Greater Increase in—		Number of Cities and Towns showing Greater Loss in—		New Towns	Aggregates
	Population	Gainful and Productive Occupations	Population	Gainful and Productive Occupations
Plymouth,	6	12	2	7	–	27
Suffolk,	1	3	–	–	–	4
Worcester,	13	28	6	11	1	59

In Plymouth County there are 18 towns out of 27 which show gains, either in population or in persons engaged in gainful and productive occupations; in six of these the greater percentage of increase was in population. There are nine which show losses, and in two of these the greater percentage of loss is shown in population.

In Suffolk County, each of the four cities and towns show increases in population and in persons employed in gainful and productive occupations, and in one of them, the town of Revere, the greater percentage of gain was in population.

In Worcester County, 41 cities and towns out of 59 show increases either in population or in persons gainfully and productively employed; of these 13 show the greater percentage of increase in population. There are 17 which show losses in one respect or the other, and of these, six show the greater percentage of loss in population. For one town, no comparison is possible, it having been established since 1885.

In Plymouth County, the percentage of increase in females engaged in gainful and productive occupations was 37.51, as against an increase of 24.80 in males, and a general increase of 27.23 per cent. The population increased 24.26 per cent.

In Suffolk County the females gainfully and productively employed increased at the rate of 37.42 per cent. The males showed an increase of 31.35 per cent, the general increase, without regard to sex, being 33.04 per cent, and the increase in population 28.19 per cent.

In Worcester County, while the general increase in persons gainfully and productively employed was 28.16 per cent, the females thus employed gained at the rate of 34.38 per cent, and the males, 26.22 per cent. The population increased 25.57 per cent.

In order to enable a comparison to be made upon this point with figures previously presented for the other counties, we bring forward in one table the percentages for all the counties in the State:

Counties.	Percentages of Increase (+), or Decrease (–), in 1895 as compared with 1885
	In Population	In Persons engaged in Gainful and Productive Occupations
		Both Sexes	Males only	Females only
Barnstable,	–7.34	–8.76	–11.46	+10.24
Berkshire,	+16.88	+19.16	+17.74	+23.69
Bristol,	+38.18	+43.49	+38.11	+57.16
Dukes,	+2.49	+5.18	+1.74	+28.71
Essex,	+25.28	+29.70	+30.09	+28.62
Franklin,	+7.20	+8.35	+6.95	+16.25
Hampden,	+30.98	+29.27	+31.07	+24.81
Hampshire,	+12.87	+14.21	+11.52	+22.06

Counties.	Percentages of Increase (+), or Decrease (−), in 1895 as compared with 1885
	In Population	In Persons engaged in Gainful and Productive Occupations
		Both Sexes	Males only	Females only
Middlesex,	+39.71	+41.40	+40.36	+44.09
Nantucket,	−4.01	+3.47	−2.23	+29.59
Norfolk,	+31.99	+35.79	+32.23	+46.74
Plymouth,	+24.26	+27.23	+24.80	+37.51
Suffolk,	+28.19	+33.04	+31.35	+37.42
Worcester,	+25.57	+28.16	+26.22	+34.38

The percentage of gain in females employed in gainful and productive occupations was greater than the percentage gained in population in every county except Hampden, and, as we have previously pointed out in similar comparisons, was generally considerably greater. It was greater than the percentage gain shown among males in all the counties except Essex and Hampden, and greater than the general rate of increase in all counties except Essex and Hampden.
